Believers Teaching Scripture to Syrian Refugees

Each month, believers in a city in Lebanon teach Scripture to about 70 Syrian refugee children in a Bible club. Recently, the Christians taught the children Luke 2:40 while their parents were learning the same Scripture in a concurrent parents meeting. The staff meet regularly for prayer and discipleship with a group of eight boys and five girls after each study. The children's Muslim parents know they are studying the Bible, but they don't mind. In fact, the parents are impressed with the things they are learning from Scripture. "We would like to thank the Lord for the ministry in the difficult area of our country where we are serving," said the Bible ministry team leader.
